Authors' Statement: “We, the authors of ‘X. Chen, Y. Zhan, Multi-scale anomaly detection algorithm based on infrequent pattern of time series, J. Computational and Applied Mathematics, 214 (2008) 227–237’ would like to correct the omission of the following attribution in Figure 4: The 3rd, 4th and 5th diagrams, corresponding to the results for the IMM, TSA-Tree and Tarzan algorithms, are reproduced from Figure 4 in our Reference [10], by using the Keogh_data set, also from Reference [10]:

[10] E. Keogh, S. Lonardi, B. Chiu, Finding surprising patterns in a time series database in linear time and space, in: Proceedings of the Eighth ACM SIGKDD International Conference on Knowledge Discovery and Data Mining, ACM Press, New York, 2002, pp. 550–556.

In addition, our paper contains parts of introductory text copied verbatim from the following papers in our references list:

[13] J. Ma, S. Perkins, Online novelty detection on temporal sequences, in: Proceedings of the International Conference on Knowledge Discovery and Data Mining, ACM Press, New York, 2003, pp. 24–27.

Finally, our paper also contains parts of introductory text copied verbatim from the following internet resources:

Ian Kaplan, July 2001 http://www.bearcave.com/misl/misl_tech/wavelets/haar.html

Matlab Users' Guide 2004 <http://www.mathworks.com/>.

We understand now that the literal copying of text and/or figures from published articles or internet resources, even when they are referenced, is unacceptable. We deeply regret this error and we offer our sincere and unreserved apologies to readers of the journal for this, and especially to the authors of the above-mentioned papers.”

Editor's Statement: “We were concerned to have these problems brought to our attention, in particular, the reproduction of a figure and the copying of text from other papers. However, after further investigating the case, we stay with our original decision to publish this paper.”
